

ESTATE GIFTS - THE POWER OF YOUR WILL

Will Power - the power to use the assets accumulated over a lifetime of accomplishment to provide for your loved ones as you see fit, rather than as the government might determine. Moreover, you retain control to easily make revisions should your future circumstances change.

When you include the YWCA Niagara Region (YW) in your will, you're using your "will power" to help provide vital future support for the important programs and services that will benefit the women of our community and their families for years to come.

Estate gifts by will (also called "bequests") enable the YW to build a solid base of funding through its various endowed and expendable funds. If you have already prepared a will, you can easily "amend" it (using a "codicil"), providing for an end-of-life gift to us. If you haven't yet drafted your will, this is the best time to prepare one - and you'll find that it is neither difficult nor expensive to do!

A gift by will to the YW yields some significant tax benefits as well. At death, your estate is entitled to a donation receipt for the full value of your gift, resulting in a significant tax credit on your final income tax return.

Example:

Nancy, a widow, leaves $10,000 to the YWCA Niagara Region and the remainder of her estate to her two children. Assuming the entire amount of her gift is eligible for a tax credit and the combined federal and provincial tax credit in Ontario is 46%, her bequest provides the remainder of her estate with tax savings of $4,600.

The donation limit for a bequest is 100% of income in the year of death, and the 100% limit also applies to any excess carried back to the prior year.

We're here to help...

It is important to consult in advance with a YW representative to ensure that your wishes can be met and that your estate gift provision is worded effectively.

Achieving Your Goals

Your estate gift may take different forms. Some examples follow, with suggested wording for discussion with your legal advisor(s):

- A general bequest provides for a certain dollar amount of identified property, usually an outright gift of cash:

"I give to the YWCA Niagara Region, the sum of $50,000 to be used for its general purposes at the discretion of its Board of Directors".
- A specific bequest directs that the YW receive a specific piece of property:

"I give. . . 1000 shares of XYZ stock. . ."
- A residual bequest designates all or a portion of whatever remains after all debts, taxes, expenses and other specific bequests have been paid:

"I give. . . fifty percent (50%) of the rest, residue and remainder of my estate to the YWCA Niagara Region..."

In addition, you can also direct the purpose(s) for which you'd like your gift to be used. While many bequests will be donated to the YW for its general purposes (as in the first example above), you may also choose to restrict your gift so that it is used for a particular program or purpose.

Subject to our gift acceptance policies, you may specify that the principal of your gift be held in an endowed fund from which only the earned income is to be expended, or direct that it be held in an expendable fund to be strategically disbursed over time. You may also choose to name such a fund for yourself or as a memorial to honour a family member, friend or colleague.

Will Power - it's yours when you prepare a will and include the YW in your plans. Your present will be a gift with enduring value...far into the future.
